The Impact of the COVID-19 Pandemic on the World’s Hospitality Industry

DESCRIPTION

The Call for papers for this Special Issue aims to explicitly provide a comprehensive collection of conceptual, empirical and case study articles on the devastating impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic on the hospitality industry, worldwide. At present, the COVID-19 virus has negatively affected the lives of billions of people in 211 countries and territories. The current estimate is that the virus has already infected more than 3.2 million people and caused more than 229,000 deaths (Worldometer, 2020). However, the truth of the matter is that we do not know yet the accurate number of people who have been infected by the virus and how many more will die until a cure and vaccine will be widely available. What we do know, is that the pandemic has negatively affected every single industry on the globe, but none has been so severely affected as the hospitality and tourism industries. Hotels, restaurants, tourist attractions, conference and convention venues, cruise lines, airlines, travel agencies, tour operators, to name just a few, ceased to operate or curtailed their operation to a fraction of their capacity. Tens of millions of people lost their jobs and thousands of businesses will go bankrupt. Thus, the purpose of this special issue is to examine the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic on the world hospitality industry and all of its stakeholders, such as employers, employees, customers, suppliers and vendors including manufacturers of goods and providers of services to the hospitality industry, local and regional economies, communities at large, etc.

TOPICS

1. The psychological effects of being unemployed and isolated at home due to the COVID-19 pandemic.
2. The personal economic and social effects of being unemployed and isolated at home due to the COVID-19 pandemic.
3. The local, regional or national economic effects of the COVID-19 pandemic on the hospitality industry.
4. Case studies on the socio-economic effects of the COVID-19 pandemic on a particular country, city, local community or an economic sector.
5. Case studies on public or private hospitality enterprises that managed to survive during the COVID-19 pandemic.
9. Other related topics

METHODOLOGIES/LENGTH

The submitted articles may be conceptual, empirical or case studies. The research methodologies could be quantitative, qualitative or mixed modes. Individual papers should not exceed 8,000 words, even though articles up to 10,000 words may be accepted if the type of analysis justifies this.

REVIEW PROCESS

Each submission will undergo the following accelerated review procedure:
1. The Guest Editor will review the article for general suitability.
2. If determined to be suitable, a number of reviewers will be selected for a fast review process to last no more than 14 days.
3. Based on the recommendation of the reviewers, the Guest Editor in consultation with the Editor-in-Chief will decide within seven days whether the particular submission should be accepted as is, revised, or rejected.
